

BUXTON BREWERY

Will Weston – Hop Doctor

Will has been an invaluable asset to our brewery during his (near 5 months) time here as a locum brewer.

Will stepped easily into our brewery with a level of professionalism and expertise that immediately put us at ease, entrusting our equipment and recipes to him. From the beginning, it was evident that he possessed a deep knowledge of brewing processes, water chemistry, ingredients, and the art of crafting great beers. His commitment to maintaining the high standards of our brewery was unwavering.

During his time with us, Will demonstrated an outstanding ability to adapt to our brewing techniques and systems. He exhibited a remarkable attention to detail, ensuring that every batch of beer he produced met our rigorous taste, appearance, and quality standards.

Will integrated into our brewery team, fostering a positive and collaborative atmosphere among our team members, and was instrumental in helping induct new starters into the brewing team during a time of change, requiring careful brewing-management to ensure continuity in our beers. His willingness to share knowledge and mentor our staff members was instrumental in enhancing our overall brewing capabilities, as well as helping to develop our brewing and process SOPs.

Will consistently met and exceeded production targets, contributing to the continued success and growth of our brewery, aided by his ability to manage complex brewing schedules and tasks.

In addition to his technical prowess, Will is a pleasure to work with on a personal level. He is personable, approachable, and always willing to go the extra mile.

In summary, I wholeheartedly endorse Will as an exceptional and highly skilled brewer. His knowledge, expertise, and positive influence have played a significant role in the challenging period we have been through together. I have the utmost confidence in his ability to excel in any brewing environment and believe they would be an asset to any brewery in need of a professional and highly capable locum / consulting brewer.

We are grateful for Will's time with us and look forward to the possibility of working with him again in the future.
